Dear Sir or Madam:

I was distressed to learn that the FCC is considering giving preference to LPFM stations over the current FM translator service.

This would affect the station we listen to almost constantly: K-LOVE. It is one of the few outlets available to which my children and I can listen which offers clean lyrics, encouraging themes and is commercial-free. My teenagers listen to this station almost exclusively. They do not even like the crude, offensive music offered on many other stations. It would be disappointing to not be able to offer them any alternatives.

My friends and my children's friends all listen to K-LOVE as well. Many people listen and comment positively to the effect this station has had on their lives. K-LOVE is one of the few stations that we can receive clearly in the mountains and while traveling to and from the city. It also offers free public service announcements about community events throughout our area.

There are incredible amounts of other entertainment options readily available that present different values from those in our mountain community. K-LOVE is one of the few stations that gives us an acceptable choice. We are so pleased with this service that we support it financially year-round.

I can hardly believe that our federal government is even considering taking away such a positive option in our area. Please do not make such a change.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Laura Scott
